To equate technical competence with ethical conduct is a waste of time and useless. Remember 1. the W8WW matter of some years c1998 ago which led to him and others (mostly Extras) being investigated for criminal activity by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement as well as the FCC for rules violations, 2. the multiple club license (4 or more call signs) abuse by extras and other higher licensed individuals, 3 Pat Sherrill who gave the world the phrase coined by others "Going Postal" http://massmurder.zyns.com/patrick_sherrill_04.html, among other abuses.

A replacement with an ethics and public service series of question will do much more good than "lost in the past" Morse code fanatics. They can get their recognition through social organizations for Morse code speed and learning.
